NEW YORK STREET CAR STRIKE MAY BE ADJUSTED TODAY

SUBMARINES CHASE ITALIAN STEAMER CARRYING AMERICANS

RAILWAY OFFICIALS AND STRIKERS' REPRESENTATIVES AGREE ON BASIS OF SETTLEMENT, IF RATIFIED BY RAILWAY DIRECTORS AND EMPLOYEES.

MAYOR MITCHELL ARBITRATES

Co-operates With Chairman Straus of the Public Service Commission in Reaching a Basis of Settlement to Be Acted Upon Today—Terms Are Not Made Public.

New York, Aug. 6.—Settlement of the street car strike, which resulted again tonight in a complete suspension of surface car traffic in all the boroughs of Greater New York except Brooklyn, is probable tomorrow, according to a statement issued by Mayor Mitchel.

The announcement came after a day of conferences initiated by Mayor Mitchel with the co-operation of Oscar B. Straus, chairman of the public service commission. At these meetings, it was said, a basis of settlement had been reached which would be submitted tomorrow to the board of directors of the New York Railways company and to its striking employees. The mayor gave out a statement, which said:

"We have submitted certain proposals for a settlement of the street railway strike to President Shantz of the New York Railways company and to the representatives of the striking employees. A basis of settlement has been found and will be recommended by President Shantz to his board of directors for ratification and by the representatives of the men to the employees for ratification by them."

"The meeting of the board of directors and the meeting of the employees will be held tomorrow and upon ratification of the proposed settlement by both sides, the men will immediately return to work and service will be resumed on the entire railways system. In the meantime and pending the submission of the terms of settlement to both sides, it is deemed inadvisable to make them public."

"The announcement that a settlement was in prospect came soon after all the company's operation surface cars in Manhattan, the Bronx and Queensborough had been ordered to the barns. No attempt was made to supply Sunday service on Staten Island (Richmond)."

Police reports indicated that about forty-five per cent of the normal Sunday car service was maintained during the day by the companies affected. Managers of the various companies declared they were ready to provide adequate service tomorrow.

Two uniformed policemen rode on every car run during the day. There were few minor disturbances.

Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson arrived in the city today to confer with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, but he denied that his visit had any connection with local labor troubles or with the threatened nationwide railroad strike.

"I have come here to discuss matters of mutual interest with Mr. Gompers," he said. "I expect to see him today or tomorrow and to leave town tomorrow night."

The Interboro Rapid Transit company today announced that all employees of the Interboro, numbering approximately 12,000, will receive one dollar per day extra pay until further notice, beginning today. Traffic in the subway and on the elevated railway lines, which are controlled by the Interboro, has been heavily increased by the disturbed conditions on the surface roads.

New Farm Loan Board Will Hold First Meeting Today

Washington, Aug. 6.—The new farm loan board, charged with organization of the federal land bank system providing methods for making loans to farmers on first mortgages of land, will hold the first meeting tomorrow at the treasury department. The most important preliminary work of the board will be division of the country into twelve federal land bank districts with a land bank, which will furnish the funds for the loans in each district.

Forty cities already have supplies or have been recommended for banks. Before it reaches any decisions the board will go to travel across the continent to hear the views of farmers on where banks should be located and how district lines should be drawn. It is probable this work will take several months.

French Official Journal Gives First List of Names of Blacklisted Americans

Paris, Aug. 6, 6:50 p. m.—The official journal today publishes the names of American individuals and firms which have been placed on the French blacklist under the trading with the enemy act. The list, which is marked Number 1, is the same as regards American individuals and firms as that given out in London July 18. The list printed in the official journal covers twenty-four columns and includes firms and individuals in Africa, South America, Japan, the Philippines, Cuba, Denmark, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Holland, Norway and Sweden, with whom French citizens are forbidden to trade with.

ON ARRIVAL OF SHIP IN NEW YORK, CAPTAIN PINCETI TELLS STORY OF EXCITING 7-HOUR RACE FROM THREE DIVERS AND FINAL ESCAPE.

SAVED BY USE OF DEFENSE GUNS

Steamer Fires on Submarines and Captain Believes Third Shot Took Effect—There Was No Way to Determine Nationality—Subs Attempt to Launch Torpedo.

New York, Aug. 6.—The Italian steamer Re d'Italia with three American passengers on board, from Genoa, Italy, was chased for seven hours by three submarines while in the Mediterranean and was saved from capture or destruction by use of defense guns mounted aft, according to the report of her master, Capt. Amedeo Pinceti, on the arrival of the ship here today. The captain said he believed one of the submersibles was hit by a shell, although his only evidence was the column of water which arose.

No shots were fired at the Re d'Italia, Captain Pinceti said, and all he saw was smoke from the periscopes. They were discovered by the lookout at 9:30 a. m. on July 23, when the vessel was about 200 miles from Genoa, midway between the Balearic Islands and the Island of Corsica. They were one and one-half miles dead astern.

Captain Pinceti ordered the speed of his ship increased to her full capacity, about twelve knots an hour. Then he summoned the crew of naval gunners on board.

About 9:45 the submarines were slightly ahead on the starboard quarter, traveling in a line," Captain Pinceti said. "Seeing that they were chasing us, I ordered my Italian naval gunner, Andreni Ugo, formerly of Newark, N. J., to open fire. The third shot, I believe, took effect, as the spout of the shell which followed the falling of the shell was much different from that caused by the preceding shot. It was much heavier and apparently impregnated with smoke or oil. After that only two periscopes were seen.

The chase continued until 4:30 that afternoon, the boats not getting any closer to us nor showing themselves. We kept on firing at them, in all fifteen shots, from our two three-inch anti-submarine guns.

After our third shot the submarines evidently tried to get in a position to launch a torpedo, but were afraid to come to the surface to get better speed because of our guns.

There was no way to determine their nationality, but their wake indicated that they were big ones."

The Re d'Italia is a vessel of 6,237 tons, owned by the Italian Lloyd Sabaudo.

Fryatt Execution Causes Workmen to Gather in London

London, Aug. 6.—One of the biggest demonstrations by workmen that has occurred during the war took place in Trafalgar Square today. The great gathering demanded reprisals for the execution of Captain Fryatt of the British steamer Brussels by the Germans in Belgium, speakers urging the impounding of all German property in England.

The British vice consul requested that the prisoners be handed over in order that they might be given passage to Holland, but Captain Mead declined. The vice consul thereupon announced that he would take the matter up with the British embassy.

Jim Gosha negro and son, Jim Gosha, another son, and Gosha, his son, were arrested on charges of being involved in the affair. The older negro had a shotgun in his hands when taken into custody. Both denied shooting at the soldiers.

About the time of the shooting Harry Gosha, another son, and Gosha, his son, were arrested on charges of being involved in the affair. The older negro had a shotgun in his hands when taken into custody. Both denied shooting at the soldiers.

The three soldiers wounded were of the second regiment.

Elections Start in Mexico.

Laredo, Texas, Aug. 6.—Municipal elections will be held throughout the Mexican state of Tamaulipas on September 3, according to circulars posted in Nuevo Laredo by authorities today.

STRIKE ORDERED IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—A strike of porters and conductors on the lines of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company was ordered tonight. Messengers were dispatched to the various car barns, notifying the men to stop work tomorrow morning.

Officials of the company declare that only fifteen per cent of their men are members of the union and say that they do not anticipate any trouble in operating their lines. Union leaders claim that at least half of the 4,700 men will answer the call. Recognition of the union and increased wages are demanded.

FARMERS' UNION PRESIDENT ISSUES ANNUAL REPORT

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER ADVANCE-MENT IN AGRICULTURE DURING PAST YEAR, CALLS ATTENTION TO SYSTEMS TO HELP FARMERS
FINANCE THEIR BUSINESS.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 6.—The establishment of a state marketing bureau, a financial system to help tenant farmers, the creation of a farm loan bank to supply the "missing link" between the farmer and the federal government, the enactment of constructive agricultural legislation by both state and national governments, co-operation between the Texas union and the unions in other states and the closer co-operation between farming, banking and other business interests are the recommendations made to the membership of the Texas Farmers' union by its president, Henry N. Pope. In his annual report given out today, Mr. Pope's report which will be submitted to the annual convention of the union here Tuesday evening, in part:

"We now face the fourteenth annual meeting of the Texas Farmers' union and the organization formed in Rains county, Texas, in 1902, has spread to over thirty states in the Union and has built up the largest association ever formed within the borders of this state. The past year has witnessed a phenomenal growth of agricultural mechanical service as well as unification of the membership and co-operation in efforts with other organizations and lines of industry."

"The greatest advancement in agriculture during the year has been the assurance from the Texas bankers to protect cotton at 12¢ a pound and to lend money on cotton in storage at 6 per cent per annum; the establishment of a state warehouse commission for marketing cotton; the federal recognition of the rural credits act; the federal appropriation for post roads and the million dollar appropriation for Texas rural schools. While several years have been spent on some of these problems and satisfactory progress made their complete consummation has been brought about within the last twelve months. The administration of agriculture has always received adequate support from government, both state and national, and from business organizations, but these efforts are on the business and marketing side of agriculture, which have long been neglected and is the most important part of farming. In this connection I want to recommend the establishment of a state marketing bureau or perhaps the jurisdiction of the warehouse commission can be expanded to cover all phases of marketing. Production and marketing entirely separate transactions, one dealing exclusively with the soil and the other with cities. Experience has proved that where the two problems are combined the production end of agriculture overshadows the marketing side and the farmer is compelled to sell heavy production on a glutted market without profit."

LEGISLATION NEEDED TO HELP TENANTS.

"The tenant problem is a most distressing one and shows few symptoms of improvement. We have, according to the best estimates available, an increase of 4,500 tenant farmers last year and against this, 2,500 farmers bought homes. Many of those purchasing farms are no doubt immigrants and as nearly as I can estimate probably a net of 3,500 farms pass from Texas farm owners to tenants per annum, which is equal to almost ten a day. So far there has been very little legislation or business co-operation that has reached the tenant farmer. Probably the greatest relief afforded the tenant farmer was when the Texas bankers declared in favor of holding cotton for 12¢ a pound. On his crop and chattel mortgages he now pays 30 to 50 per cent interest rate and if this were reduced to normal it would buy many homes per annum. No farmer can overcome the high interest rate and it is doubtful if any considerable number of farmers can survive a 10 per cent rate. The problem presents many difficulties which can only be solved by the co-operation of the business interests, the farmers, the bankers and the merchants."

GOVERNMENT IS HELPING THE FARMER.

"The farmers have received more benefits from government during the year than perhaps at any previous time during the history of the nation. The rural credits act is capable of making 6 per cent money possible on all loans. The farmers of Texas now owe about $225,000,000 on their farms and the interest rate will average 10 per cent. The rural credits act alone will make possible a reduction of $3,000,000 per annum in interest paid by the farmers. The federal government putting in operation the reserve bank has made 6 per cent money on cotton

In storage a reality. The federal appropriation for building and improving post roads will give Texas about $1,500,000 to spend on rural routes. A fund of $1,000,000 was appropriated by the last legislature to be used for the development of promoting the country schools of the state. The Thirty-fourth legislature also passed a law requiring all public schools in independent school districts with a scholastic population of less than 300 to have taught in them elementary agriculture and cotton grading.

Endeavor Societies Report Excellent Sunday Programs

The four Christian Endeavor societies of Waco reported good meetings yesterday.

The Central Presbyterian service, in charge of Mrs. O. F. Hill, was declared to be exceptional, the most interesting and best attended service that these young folks had had this term. Fully seventy persons were present, including quite a few visitors.

There was not such a large attendance at the Morrison street service, but the program was lively and interesting. The song service contributed much to the service. Joe Tucker, president of the Waco union, led the service. About twenty persons were present.

Miss Annie Gibbs directed the Central Christian service. Miss Gibbs was well pleased with her meeting. There were about twenty-five persons present, all of whom assisted in a splendid service.

The Second Presbyterian Endeavor services are continuing to be well attended, and nearly all of the Endeavorers, as well as visitors, participate on the programs. Misses Corinne Quinns and Florence Stonecker were the dual leaders. The two girls are efficient and responsible for the bright and inspiring service which they directed. The attendance amounted to thirty or thirty-five persons, with several visitors among those present.

"As will readily be seen from such excellent meetings as these, Christian Endeavor in Waco is awaking to its task, which is winning and training the youths of Waco for Christ and the church," said President Tucker last night.

Suspect Negro Man and Wife of Arson

Blinded by a glaring headlight on an incoming auto, R. A. Gentry of 409 South Eighth street, while driving a five-passenger touring car to a small fire on South Second street, last night ran amuck of the hook and ladder unit of Central station on Jones street. One of the long ladders of the truck was broken in two and the top of Gentry's car suffered. No one was injured in the collision.

Y M H A Hears Debate on Literacy Test

The Young Men's Hebrew association meeting called to order promptly at 8 o'clock last night and minutes of the last meeting were read and other routine business was attended to. A report by the treasurer showed a good financial standing of the association.

Abe Gross was elected as temporary chairman to preside at the next meeting. Mr. Goldfarb read another one of his humorous articles on the last dance, which was greatly enjoyed.

In the debate, Abe Rosenburg and M. Adams defended the negative, while Mr. Marks and L. Aveline took the affirmative of the question: "Should Literacy Disqualify Immigrants to This Country?" The decision was in favor of the affirmative.

When Is a "Rookie" a Sub-Marine

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—Can a citizen volunteer for training in the duties of the United States marine corps, holding himself in readiness to take the place of a regular marine killed in war? He is properly termed a submarine?

That is what the "rookies" now at the marine corps training camp in Lansdowne, Pa., would like to know.

Friends of the citizen "sea soldiers" are telling them that a marine, not regularly a marine, although coached in the signals and likely to be called upon to "pinch hit" for a regular marine, must necessarily be a sub-marine.

The "rookies" themselves say that Noah Webster overlooked this knotty problem when he wrote his best seller, and they are calling on sports editors to decide the question.

Many Thrilling Episodes Take Place on Danish West Indies U. S. Would Buy

Washington, Aug. 6.—Concerning the early history of America's about-to-be possessions, the Danish West Indies, the National Geographic society issues the following bulletin from Washington:

"Of the three small islands on the northeastern edge of the Caribbean sea, for which the United States expects to pay Denmark $25,000,000, St. Thomas and St. John, both smaller and less densely populated than St. Croix, have been the scenes of many thrilling episodes. Here white colonists of four nations followed each other with bewildering perplexity during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

After nearly a hundred years after the discovery of St. Thomas by Columbus, in 1493, the island was wholly uninhabited, although its excellent harbor had been a port of refuge for Dutch navigators during many decades. When a handful of French colonists, survivors of a massacre on Crab Island perpetrated by a band of Spaniards from Porto Rico, reached its shores in a dugout in 1666, they found evidences of an earlier settlement, but no clues to the nationality of their predecessors or of their fate. These French wanderers were not disposed to bravely meet the same mysterious end, so they sailed on.

"At about the time Peter Stuyvesant was establishing a representative form of government on Manhattan island some of his fellow countrymen were establishing the first recorded settlement on St. Thomas. These Dutch colonists met the same fate which overtook their brother Hollanders of 'New Amsterdam' for three years after the town on the Hudson became New York, the St. Thomas pioneers were forced to surrender to the English also. The latter soon deserted the island and turned to the fertile lands of St. Martin and St. Eustatius, in 1671, when the Dutch, wishing to share in the colonial prosperity of other European nations, chartered the West India and Guinea company, St. Thomas, uninhabited again, was awaiting the arrival of settlers who were to establish Denmark's rights in the island. With two brief interruptions, this sovereignty has been maintained from that day up to the present time.

"The legend that St. Thomas was at one time the headquarters of the dreaded buccaneers who terrorized the Spanish Main for so many years is perpetuated in the names given to two towers still standing on the heights back of the seaport of Charlotte Amalie. On one hill is 'Bluebeard's Castle,' while on an adjacent height rises 'Blackbeard's Castle.' History does not substantiate the romantic tradition, and it is extremely doubtful that the buccaneers were ever in possession here.

"When the Danes arrived they were under very strict orders as to religious observances and with respect to a 'preparedness' program against rival colonists. The first order issued by the governor was: 'Every person who speaks Danish is bound to attend service every Sunday in Christian's fort when the drum beats, and on failure of doing so, is to pay a fine of 250 pounds of tobacco.' Persons of all other countries bound to attend service every Sunday afternoon at the same place, under the same penalty.'

"As to armament the order was:

'For the defense and good of the country, every householder shall keep a gun, for himself and every man in his service, a sword with belt, and a gun with sufficient powder and ball; and also each householder shall have two pounds of powder, or more if he pleases. Every person neglecting this duty shall pay 100 pounds of tobacco.'

"The order for the citizen army ran thus: 'Every Saturday afternoon as the drums beat, all men between the ages of 18 and 50 shall meet at the parade ground fully armed. Any person absent, in favorable weather, shall forfeit every time twenty-five pounds of tobacco, which is to be paid at the end of the year for the benefit of those who meet regularly.'

"The order for the citizen army ran thus: 'Every Saturday afternoon as the drums beat, all men between the ages of 18 and 50 shall meet at the parade ground fully armed. Any person absent, in favorable weather, shall forfeit every time twenty-five pounds of tobacco, which is to be paid at the end of the year for the benefit of those who meet regularly.'

"The shortage of labor during the first year or two of Danish occupation was overcome by the importation of many slaves from the Gold coast of Africa. The laws governing these slaves were extremely severe, however, and many masters and feasts were forbidden. All slaves required to be at home by sunset on Sundays. A slave transgressing such regulations was to be flogged on Sundays, for the second his ears were cut off, and for the third he was hanged and his head placed on a stake.

"In the neighboring island of St. John the slave laws were even more drastic. Here are some of the penalties which brought about a bloody insurrection in 1733. The slaves were forced to work in salt marshes, their clothes were torn, and they were beaten with red-hot irons, and then hung.

"Each other runaway slave shall lose one leg, or if his owner pardons him, shall lose one ear and receive 150 stripes.

"A slave who runs away for eight days shall have 150 stripes, twelve months shall lose one leg, and six months shall forfeit his life, unless the owner pardons him with the loss of one leg.

"A slave who lifts his hand to strike a white person or threaten him with violence shall be pinched and hung, should the white person demand it; if not, to lose his right hand."

"In the terrible insurrection one of the victims was a Judge Soetman, who was murdered and decapitated in the presence of his beautiful 12-year-old daughter, and while a council was be-

Carranza Men Capture Villistas

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 6.—Carrancista forces today captured one of the party which, under Mariano Tames, former Villista colonel, left yesterday with the announced intention of joining Villa near Zaragoza, about fifty miles south. Gen. Francisco Gonzales announced. Four others, he added, had been taken near Sumalayaca.

General Gonzalez asserted also that the prisoner said he had been captured by Carrancista forces, and that he had been expected to join them south of Juarez, but had sent word that they had dispersed. Several hundred Carrancista cavalrymen are in close pursuit of Tames and the remnant of his band.

Mexican officials denied the revoltors took with them munitions and several machine guns from the Juarez cuartel.

MEETING OF TRAVELERS IS ENTHUSIASTIC ONE

ADDRESS FROM ALABAMA TRAVELERS' HEAD IS READ BEFORE SESSION.

Cotton Palace Plans for Special Day Will Be Made Next Sunday.

Enthusiasm was rampant at the meeting of the Texas Travelers yesterday morning. Several new members were enrolled and inspiring short talks made for the good of the traveling men of the state. Upon suggestion of J. W. Barnett the entertainment committee will have in charge the outlining of a program of spicy, five-minute addresses on such subjects as "Co-operation," "Better Transportation Facilities," "Hotel Conveniences and Sanitation," "Improved Telephonic and Telegraphic Service," etc.

A communication was read from T. C. Edmondson, who is in Tennessee on a vacation, showing a wide interest in the work of the Texas Travelers and their plans. Press reports from Tennessee indicate that the Tennessee Travelers have pulled many "stunts" during the summer and have proven a great force for good for the traveling men of that state.

MESSAGE FROM HEAD ALABAMA TRAVELERS.

A communication was read from E. P. Kirkpatrick of Birmingham, president of the Alabama Travelers, which created considerable interest, as follows:

"We are going to make the A. T. A. a force to be felt in Alabama. The organization always has been fighting for the best of everything for the traveling man. We will continue to do this and will also go out after new members. The association now has a membership exceeding 900 and before the time of the next annual meeting we expect to have not less than 2,000. With this number we will be here for any one to help the travelers that to whom they feel they are entitled."

"We will have an almost irresistible force for good in the state and we will use it to the end that the best interests of the whole state be conserved. The A. T. A. stands for something in the life of a traveling man and we will make it stand for more. We have an organization than which there is none better, and few its equal. We represent every traveling man in the state to be affiliated with us and we will have the best."

This inspiring address from the president of the Alabama Travelers called forth expressions from members of the Texas Travelers indicating that the Lone Star State would show a membership equal to that of Alabama in a short while.

TRAVELING MEN WANT VOTE.

The matter of a legislative provision whereby traveling men may have the right of ballot though away from home was brought up, and upon motion was referred to the legislative committee of the Texas Travelers to co-operate with similar committees from other traveling men's associations in securing the passage of a bill permitting the right of exercise of ballot without pecuniary sacrifice on the part of traveling men because of the necessity of traveling many miles at times in order to reach home to vote.

To the entertainment committee, of which P. G. Taylor, chairman, was referred a communication of George G. Stubblefield tendering Cameron Park Club to the Texas Travelers free of charge for any open-air meetings or entertainment desired. The entertainment committee was also empowered to plan an attractive entertainment at an early date.

The sick committee, of which A. D. Adams is chairman, reported the recuperation of E. H. Coffield of Rockdale, in a local sanitarium, and George W. Shumway, who is in Marion, recovering from a recent illness.

Chairman B. R. Mason of the employment committee reported work being done by his colleagues and was given a line on one position open for a high-class man.

IS GOOD INVESTMENT TO ALWAYS OBEY GOD

DALLAS PREACHER SPEAKS AT MORNING HOUR FIFTH ST. METHODIST.

Insists That Failure to Give God's Tenth Is Equivalent to Theft.

Rev. Josephus Lee of Dallas preached an interesting sermon at Fifth Street Methodist church at 11 a. m. yesterday on "God's Immutable Purpose in the Creation of Man." His text was Matthew 10:18. "Think not that I came to destroy the law or the prophets; I came not to destroy but to fulfill. For verily I say unto you, till Heaven and earth pass away, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass away from the law, till all be fulfilled."

Rev. Mr. Lee said in part:

"Jesus wanted the people to know that He had come to complete the work purposed by God in the creation of man. God had purposed to build in this world a great government, such as Plato in his Republic, Bacon in his Atlantis, or Thomas More in his Isle of Utopia had not the most remote dream. In this government, God was to be the Father of the governed; Jesus Christ was to be their elder brother, the Holy Ghost their comforter, and their guiding angels were to be their ministering servants.

MAN IS GOD'S CO-WORKER.

"God created man as His co-worker, giving him part in the work; if you are engaged in a work which will hinder the building of this government, you are not a friend to Jehovah."

MUST OBSERVE GOD'S LAW.

"If man was to be a co-worker with Jehovah he must of necessity have a law by which to govern his acts. Without law there can be no government, and without a penalty attached for the punishment of law-breaking there is no law. The commandments of Jesus referred to epitomized in the Ten Commandments. Where even the principle set forth in God's law could be established it would develop what we now are pleased to call a Christian civilization. You see the law is needed, and the prophet is needed to establish the principles of the law. God not only planned for the law to go out into the world by calling men to go and carry this law, but He gave them a man, a parable, the greatest work for Jehovah, to set apart as holy to Himself the tenth of everything He gave to man. The man who calls this a hard plan does not know of what he speaks."

TITHING IS NOT DIFFICULT.

"If that gentleman (pointing to one of the members) would give me ten dollars, who is so ignorant as to say it would be a hardship for me to give him one dollar? Should he give me one hundred, I could give him ten, and one thousand, I could give him one hundred."

"My friends, this is all my Heavenly Father asks that you give Him, one-tenth of all He gives you, and whatever your work may be in the building of this great government, you are no less responsible than is the preacher of the Word."

"Jehovah has and possibly will change His plan many times, but His purpose to build this government will never change. The kingdoms of this world will become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ. You may throw yourself in the path and impede His progress for a time, but it will only be for a time. "Our God is marching on." Every man who holds any part of Jehovah's wealth is one of His stewards, and as such is held responsible for your stewardship.

"It is a danger in robbing God. If you should take that which is holy unto the Lord, and hide it among your own stuff, would you expect the angels to stand guard over satan's goods? Would you expect God to guard your children while they used satan's goods? Thousands of men have robbed God to the detriment of their own family. I had rather my son would use one dollar, which God had blessed him to have ten under God's frown. There are men in this city who are winning their names with money withheld from God."

DOES IT PAY TO TITHE?

"It is always a good investment to obey God. It pays to have churches and schools, a Christian civilization and a Christian commercialism—it pays to give God His own. When we take possession of the Philippine islands, a great call was made for teachers and preachers, and in three years our exports to those islands had increased to $100 million dollars. Suppose we could give to the church the millions of dollars which belong to God and would permit the church to fill Africa and China with missionaries. It would only be a few years until the iron horse would be running through those countries and we could not supply their demand for our products. Suppose our net income across the waters was given one-tenth for the laws of God which they have spent for us—would their streams be red with the blood of their sons? Covetousness is the sin of the world today, but God will establish His Kingdom even though selfishness still is rife. He will be glorified."

DIRECTORS OF COTTON PALACE HAVE MEETING THIS EVENING

Reports of various committees now active to their plans for the 1916 exhibition of the Texas Cotton Palace will be heard this evening at 8 o'clock in the gold room of the Raleigh hotel to the directors. Vice President Forrest E. Goodman will preside during the absence of President T. F. Bush, who is now traveling in the East.

With the big exposition only some three months off, the meetings of the directors will be more frequent and the various activities necessary to the opening of an enlarged show will be more intense.

Most of the building plans have been handled and work in this direction will be half finished soon. Attention is now given to the exhibits, amusement and publicity features.

Mart Mayor Believes His City Is Best in the State

Mayor John Vaughan of Mart was in the city yesterday with his family. Mr. Vaughan will be remembered as formerly postmaster at Mart and made a good one, but the democrat steam roller came along and he, with a gentle complacency, stepped aside and let the administration take its reward. He was later elected mayor of his city, which evidences his good citizenship. To be a republican, even in Texas, does not mean that a man is not appreciated and is not a part of the great machinery of civic usefulness.

To a New York reporter yesterday he said: "Mart is one of the best little towns in Texas. Our people are progressive, in the sense that what we do, we do substantially. We have built many blocks of concrete sidewalks, both in the business section and in the residential section. We had to educate the people first, but when they saw the good, they accepted it. We need more good roads now, and we are working along this line, and in the near future we expect to have good roads."

CHARACTERISTIC COLQUETTISM.

In his introduction of Colquitt to a McKinley audience, Mr. Wallace Hughston took occasion to couple up his name with that of Senator Bailey. Mr.
Hughston has evidently seen but little of the sidelights of Texas politics, and was misled by the fulsome eulogies of
Mr. Bailey which were delivered by Colquitt from every stump when he was a candidate for governor in 1910.

It will probably surprise Mr. Hughston, and some others, to learn that when the question of investigation was up before the legislature in 1907, Colquitt was one of the most pronounced antagonists of Mr. Bailey to be found at Austin. He did advise against the Bailey fight in 1908, on the ground that it was an unnecessary waste of strength, and counseled that the opposition to Bailey should hold together, and reserve all their power to defeat him when he came up for re-election.

One of the most characteristic pieces of Colquettism to be found in the history of Texas politics was his denunciation of Bailey in January, 1907, when Bailey was under fire, and his adulation of Bailey in 1910, when he (Colquitt) was under fire.

When Colquitt rushed into print in a New York newspaper to attack the Wilson administration, he did it for the purpose of commanding himself to the republicans of the North and the East.
Now he pleads the baby act because the democrats of Texas propose to hold him accountable for his own voluntary folly. Every republican applauded him then, and every republican is applauding him now.

The state meeting of the Farmers'
Union of Arkansas, with only one dissenting vote, passed a resolution urging its members to vote to keep in force statewide prohibition. Whatever may be their differences with respect to other economic questions, the farmers everywhere are lining up for the demand that liquor shall go. It never entered a farm house but to plant a curse there, and the farmer knows it.

John Sharp Williams of Mississippi is one of the big men of the senate, and it will please the nation at large to know that he will be returned without opposition. Charles S. Culberson of Texas is another one of the big men of the senate, and it will send a thrill of pleasure through the country when it hears that he has been renominated with almost no opposition.

Nobody objects to our purchase of the Danish West Indies, but some complaint is made that $25,000,000 is too much for them. It should be remembered that the same objection was made to the Louisiana purchase, and to the Alaskan purchase, both of which proved to be splendid deals. In fact, Uncle Sam never did get worsted in a land trade.

Tennessee democrats have declared for a constitutional convention by a good majority. Tennessee, like Texas, has a constitution which was cut to fit the long ago. Unlike Texas, Tennessee has discovered that the garment doesn't fit. A constitution for 1876 is sadly out of joint with the needs of 1916.

One thousand deaths were caused by four days of heat in Chicago. In the interest of humanity, the railroads should spread out the season for those excursion rates from Chicago to Texas so as to begin July 1 and end about June 1.

Colquitt promises never, no, never,
to be a lackey boy for the president.
But the question of more immediate concern for the people of Texas just now is to exact pledges from their servants never, no, never, to serve as lackies for the breweries.

vote for Colquitt. Now if Hugh

THE COTTON OUTLOOK.

The estimate of the government agricultural bureau is that the cotton crop of the Southern states this year will be about 14,000,000 bales.

The value of this cotton crop, including the seed, will probably be in excess of $1,000,000,000, of which more than one-third should come to Texas.
The income from cotton should average over $60 per capita for every man, woman and child in Texas if this estimate is made good.

No such result has ever been enjoyed before by the cotton growers of the South. If no mishap shall occur to blast their hopes, the greatest measure of prosperity ever witnessed in this state will be ushered in with the beginning of the fall cotton season.

Alfalfa Bill Murray has been de-

is one of the immigrants from Texas who made landing in the Indian Ter-state. Bill was a pioneer, and, alas, the latest fashion is the only thing that goes now in politics.

Candidate Hughes comes out strong for woman suffrage, which will not be settled in the next four years, and skips every issue that will be up for action during the next four years. He is wonderfully brave where bravery invites no serious friction.

The Lone Star Gas company, which supplies Dallas with natural gas, has given notice that it will, on September 1, discontinue service to commercial users and limit service to domestic use. This course is made necessary by the shortage in the gas field. Fort Worth and all intermediate towns will share the same fate. Waco is the only large city in Texas that will continue to offer to small factories the advantage of a specially low rate upon natural gas for manufacturing purposes.

Congressman Henry was first to declare that Colquitt had put himself outside the pale of the democratic party, and he started something that is spreading like a prairie fire.

Young Men's Wesleyan Class Has Banquet This Evening

The Herald is for the cotton grower.
It called on the banks last year to utilize the opportunity afforded by the regional banking system and let the farmers have money on cotton at 6 per cent. But the banks wouldn't do it.

They held out for 10 per cent. The president of the State Bankers' association requested to ask the bankers in the small towns to help the farmers and the consumers lost millions of dollars by not holding their cotton off the market.

Now another cotton season is coming on.

The Herald again calls on the bankers in the interior towns to come to the farmer's rescue with 6 per cent money and urge him not to sell his cotton for less than 12c a pound, for it is worth it and he can get it with the help of the local bankers. Will the banks see their duty?—Hamilton

SAVIOR MET DEATH MARLIN SCHOOLS BUY LIKE A BRAVE MAN HIGH SCHOOL SITE*DR. CULVER DENIES SUGGESTION THAT CHRIST CRINGED BEFORE DEATH.*LIBERAL TOWARD SACRAMENT*Austin Avenue Methodist Pastor Eliminates Church Lines in Offering Sacrament.

In a brief though forceful and appealing sermon of less than twenty minutes yesterday morning, Rev. F. P.
Culver, pastor of Austin Avenue Methodist church, talked to his audience from Mat. 4:22, "Thy will be done," the sermon having been shortened on account of the administration of the Sacrament following the service, as is the custom of the Methodists with each first Sunday.

Dr. Culver said that some Bible commentators and writers had declared that Jesus showed a weakness amounting to intense human fear when He came down to earth, the death of the cross, and it was the opinion of Dr. Culver that many such writers have been more anxious to bear out some fine-spun theory of their own than to get at the real truth of the Gospel.

Of course, death was not a pleasing thought to one who had only reached the thirty-third year and was getting down to the thirtieth. Dr. Culver and the promises of usefulness, service and love and helpfulness, and of course the human hold on the things of life was strong and sweet and tender and not to be shaken loose without first getting the knowledge that it was necessary to make the sacrifice; life held many things that were beautiful, noble, glorious and appealing, and the Christ had given the promise of salvation, and had noted the need of a helping hand all along the way. It was a sad thought that He must leave His disciples, leave the work in human hands, and cease the endeavor which had been so satisfying, but when He received the word that it must be thus, the ready acquiescence, the patient sacrifice, the gentle and willing compliance were more than human. How many more men under all the circumstances could have said as He did, "Thy will be done?"

He showed that He was ready to tread this path, to die this death, to make any sacrifice if it were necessary. His attitude was one of bravery rather than otherwise, for when he found that the sacrifice was necessary beyond doubt, and that the hour had come, He met the situation with a willing heart and a firm trust in that and potatoes is expected to result.

In presenting the invitation to take partake of the Sacrament, Dr. Culver presents a strikingly liberal attitude, asking all who love God and want to serve Him, to participate, whether they belong to other churches or whether they belong to any visible church.

Last night Dr. Culver preached one of his strongest, most searching sermons since he has been in Waco, on the theme,

"The Kind of Men Needed Today."

It was a practical, intense, forceful and forward-looking message, and appealed powerfully to all who heard it.

CHARACTERISTIC COLQUETTISM.

In his introduction of Colquitt to a McKinney audience, Mr. Wallace Hugh-

name with that of Senator Bailey. Mr.
Hughston has evidently seen but little
of the sidelights of Texas politics, and
was misled by the fulsome eulogies of
Mr. Bailey which were delivered by Colquitt from every stump when he

It will probably surprise Mr. Hugh-

FEDERAL FARM LOAN ACT MAY FINANCE FARMERS

System for Lending Money on Farm Lands at Reasonable Interest for Relatively Long Periods, Doing Same for Farmer as Reserve Banks Do for Business Men.

Washington, Aug. 6.—After many years of investigation and debate, the federal government has developed the best method of providing financial aid for the farmer at normal interest rates and on long time, according to the federal farm loan act. President Wilson has named members of the board which will administer its provisions, and the work of organizing the vast new system is about to begin.

Secretary McAdoo, ex-officio member of the farm loan board, which will be at the head of the system, predicts that it can furnish money for at least two months and probably loans cannot be made before next spring.

In operation the system to some extent will do for the farmer what the federal reserve system does for the business man. The farmer will be given opportunity to secure money on his most available commodity, his land, just as the merchant or manufacturer has been enabled through the federal reserve system to have his paper, based on commercial transactions, find a ready market.

The new scheme has many points of resemblance to the federal reserve system, but in many essential features it is possible that in years to come they may have funds to loan that will amount to several hundred million dollars, it is not believed probable that the system ever will have the resources of the reserve system.

This act provided for a division of continental United States into twenty land bank districts, with a federal land bank in each. The work of designating these districts and selecting the centers at which the loan banks are to be located will be the first important duty of the farm loan board and is expected to result in just as rapid contests as preceded the announcement of the lines of the twelve federal reserve districts and the location of federal reserve banks. The only directory provision in the farm loan act says that land banks shall be located with particular reference to the farm loan needs of the district by the board with his wife discretion. Many applications from cities, particularly in the northwest and southwest, already have been filed in the treasury, but the board will not make public its conclusions until it has traveled over the country and held hearings in many states.

Each federal land bank must have a minimum subscribed capital of $750,000 before it can start business. If within thirty days after books are opened for subscriptions to the stock of any of these banks individuals or corporations have not subscribed that amount, the secretary of the treasury is directed to subscribe for the United States in the needed sums. Stock in the banks may pay dividends when earned, but the United States as a stockholder cannot participate with others.

These banks will not, except in special cases, loan direct to farmers, but through the agency of National Farm Loan associations, which may be organized to any number in a land bank district by any ten owners or prospective owners of farm land who desire to secure loans on farm property. Applications for charters for these associations will be sent up to the farm loan board and may be refused by it. No association will be chartered unless it is shown that signing members desire loans totaling at least $20,000.

In applying for membership in an association, a farmer must take five per cent of the face value of the desired loan in stock of the association. Applications are to be passed by a loan committee of the farm loan association. Loans will be made only on first mortgage or farm property and the value of the land will be the main consideration. The land will be subject to inspection by an appraiser of the farm loan board. Loans will be made only for purchase of land, for construction or for purchase of livestock, equipment, fertilizer, to provide buildings on a farm or to liquidate indebtedness, existing when the first association is formed in the county where land is located. No loan will be made of more than $10,000 nor less than $100. Interest will not be charged greater than six per cent. The loan itself will be reduced through an amortization plan providing for payment by annual or semi-annual payments on the principal. No mortgage shall run for more than forty years nor less than five, and there are the necessary provisions in the law for satisfaction of overdue interest or amortization payments.

The money to be loaned will come through the federal land banks, given to the hands of the National Farm Loan association and to the farmer. The cash in stock of the land banks will not give them much loaning power, so congress increased that power greatly by authorizing the banks to issue farm loan bonds and sell them in the open market. The act provides that when a federal land bank has loaned $50,000 to farmers it may have a corresponding amount of farm loan bonds, and that the total may be issued by any one bank on a minimum capital of $750,000 is to be twenty times that capital. This would give each

Cattle Ticks Must Migrate

Washington, Aug. 6.—The permanent eradication of the cattle ticks in Louisiana now seems assured as a result of the passage by the state legislature of the statewide tick eradication law. After April 1, 1918, tick eradication will be under the direction of the state livestock sanitary board, and the law provides that such parishes as may be designated by that board will be required to make adequate provision for the construction of dipping vats and the dipping of cattle for ticks, and to continue such dipping until the ticks are entirely eliminated.

While the law will not be enforced until April 1, 1918, the federal authorities urge the revision of the present provision now, as the different parishes for the construction of vats and for the necessary chemicals for the baths.

An indication that the people of Louisiana are not inclined to wait until 1918 before taking up tick eradication, federal agents state that active work is now being conducted in nine parishes, with the result that the eradication of the cattle ticks will be completed by the month of June, 1916. The state and federal employees have received $4,500 dipping vats to rid them of ticks, and to continue such dipping until the ticks are entirely eliminated.

FARMERS SAID TO BE ON "DOG TROT" THROUGH LIFE

Rural Life Mediator Sees Untold Opportunities for Ambitious, Energetic Farmers.

My sister, who lived in the country a few years ago, owned a large Newfoundland dog, which she used in a helpful way. She had a dog churn, and when her cream was ready to churn, she put Rover in the "readymill," which was attached to the churn, and the faithful old dog did the rest. He would go on "the dog trot," but made no advance. This serves to illustrate the condition of many people.

The treadmill is grinding the life out of multitudes of people. In fact, every one is living a treadmill life to a greater or less degree. The merchant, who is at his place of business the early and late hours of the day, week and month, goes to bed at the same hour, and is himself converted into a machine, and is in the treadmill. The wife, who is busy from morning till night in the household duties, is also in the treadmill, and in this treadmill, men and women in all walks in life are in the treadmill, and many apparently make no effort to get out of the mill. Contented self-slavery is without excuse and deserves no pity.

THE FARMER A CHRONIC KICKER?

The farmer has the name of being a chronic kicker. His lot in life is hard work, even harder than any other class of men. Nothing is just as it should be. It is either too cold or too hot; too wet or too dry, and things generally are not as good as they were.

The farmer can have little time for his hobbies, work with less than the man engaged in any other calling.

While he is sleeping, his crops and stock are growing into money.

He takes a day off now and then and this will move along on the farm after the usual order, without any material loss.

Not so with the city man.

When he turns the key in his door, his expenses are going on just the same.

If he leaves his place of business for an hour or a day, things are able to go wrong, with economy.

The farmer, in the meantime, the day laborer must be on time each morning to the minute, and if they lose any time, a corresponding loss in revenue follows.

The farmer, in this respect, the grinding toll of the farm is not as great or nerve-wearing as in other occupations.

When the grind becomes irksome, the farmer and his family can take a little day off, without serious loss.

They can extract more real pleasure out of life than people in any other calling, if they only will.

TOO BUSY TO FISH.

The department of agriculture, some time ago, received a letter from a farmer's wife, in which she wrote in part, as follows:

There is a splendid woods on our farm, and a beautiful stream running through it. Here, all through the summer, week-enders from the city are to be found, enjoying the shade, fishing in the stream, swimming, picnicking. They come Saturday afternoons and remain until Sunday evening. I should like to do that, but, somehow, we are always too busy. My children have never sat in that stream, and in all the twelve years that we have owned the place, I have never eaten a picnic dinner in the woods."

Whose fault was it that good women and the members of her family never enjoyed the blessings to which she makes reference, when they were at her very door and in her own possession? She and her husband were the ones to blame.

She had no right to complain if she refused to avail herself of the blessings within her reach.

If a person is hungry, and prefers to eat of a sumptuous dinner, he has no ground for a kick unless he should kick himself.

If country people as well as city people would do less grumbling and fault finding at their lot in life, they would live longer and be happier.

There were a number of girls, canned chickens represented by a girl seated in a chair in which one girl seated and canned six cans of tomatoes in sixteen minutes was one of the events of the week.

FARMERS' CHIMNEY CORNER

FEDERAL FARM LOAN ACT MAY FINANCE FARMERS

System for Lending Money on Farm Lands at Reasonable Interest for Relatively Long Periods, Doing Same for Farmer as Reserve Banks Do for Business Men.

Washington, Aug. 6.—After many years of investigation and debate to develop the best method of providing financial aid for the farmer at normal interest rates and on long time, congress has passed a farm loan act. President Wilson has named members of the board which will administer its provisions, and the work of organizing the vast new system is about to begin.

Secretary McAdoo, ex-officio member of the farm loan board, which will be at the head of the system, predicts that it cannot be in operation for at least six months and probable loans cannot be made before next spring.

In operation the system to some extent will do for the farmer what the federal reserve system does for the business man. The farmer will be given opportunity to secure money on his most available commodity, his land, just as the merchant and manufacturer has been enabled through the federal reserve system to have his paper, based on commercial transactions, find a ready market.

The new scheme has many points of resemblance to the federal reserve system, but in many essential features it is possible that the years to come may bring funds to loan that will amount to several hundred million dollars, it is not believed probable that the system even will have the resources of the reserve system.

It is provided for a division of continental United States into twenty land bank districts, with a federal land bank in each. The work of designating these districts and selecting the centers at which the loan banks are to be located will be the first important duty of the farm loan board and is expected to result in just as many bitter contests as preceded the announcement of the lines of the twelve federal reserve districts and the location of federal reserve banks. The only directory provision in the farm loan act says that land banks shall be located with particular reference to the farm loans needed of the country, so the board will have wide discretion. Many applications from cities, particularly in the northwest and southwest, already have been filed in the treasury, but the board will not make public its conclusions until it has traveled over the country and held hearings in many states.

Each federal land bank must have a minimum subscribed capital of $750,000 before it can start business. If within thirty days after books are opened for subscriptions to the stock of any of these banks individuals or corporations have not subscribed that amount, the secretary of the treasury is directed to subscribe to the United States in the needed sums. Stock in the banks may pay dividends when earned, but the United States as a stockholder cannot participate with others.

The banks will not, except in special cases, loan direct to farmers, but through the agency of National Farm Loan associations, which may be organized to any number in a land bank district by any ten owners or prospective owners of farm land who agree to secure loans on farm property. Applications for charters for these associations must go up to the farm loan board and may be refused by it. No association will be chartered unless it is shown that signing members desire loans totaling at least $20,000.

In applying for membership in an association, a farmer must take five per cent of the face value of the desired loan in stock of the association.

Applications for loans are to be passed upon by a loan committee of the farm loan association. Loans will be made only on first mortgage or farm property and the value of the land will be the main consideration. The land will be subject to inspection by an appraiser of the farm loan board and may be refused by it. No association will be chartered unless it is shown that signing members desire loans totaling at least $20,000.

As an indication that the people of Louisiana are not inclined to wait until 1918 before taking up tick eradication, federal agents state that active work is now being conducted in nine parishes, with the result that during the month of June, parish, state and federal employees superintend 23,000 dippings of cattle to rid them of ticks.

The federal authorities believe that a large number of square miles will be added to the tick-free area in Louisiana by the end of this year.

Cattle Ticks Must Migrate

Washington, Aug. 6.—The permanent eradication of the cattle tick in Louisiana now seems assured as a result of the passage by the state legislature of the statewide tick eradication law. After April 1, 1918, tick eradication will be under the direction of the state livestock sanitary board, and the law provides that such parishes as may be designated by that board will be required to make adequate provision for the construction of dipping vats and the dipping of cattle for ticks, and to continue such dipping until the ticks are entirely eliminated.

While the law will not be enforced until April 1, 1918, the federal authorities urge the wisdom of making provision now in the different parishes for the construction of vats and for the necessary chemicals for the baths.

THE FARMER A CHRONIC KICKER?

The farmer has the name of being a chronic kicker. His lot in life is the worst ever. He has had a hard life with less pay than any other class of people. Nothing is just as it should be. It is either too cold or too hot, too wet or too dry, and things generally are out of order. There is a spirit prevailing among country people that they are not good enough for an honest day's work.

The clerk, the mechanic, the day laborer must be on time each morning to the minute, and if they lose any time, a corresponding loss in revenue follows. The farmer is the most independent man on this earth. The grinding toll of the farm is not as great or nerve-wearing as in other occupations. Whose fault is it that good woman and the members of her family never enjoyed the blessings to which she makes reference? When the children are too young to be in their own possession? She and hers were evidently in the treadmill. She had no right to complain, if she refused to avail herself of the blessings within her reach. If a person wants to have time to eat a hearty, nutritious meal, after her set before him, he has no ground for a kick, unless he should kick himself. ### Much Advancement Shown at Farmers' Annual Congress at A. & M. College

To the Waco Morning News:

It was my privilege to attend the meeting of the Farmers' Congress at the A. & M. college last week of which our fellow citizen, John Gorham of Bosqueville, was president and who was complimented for re-election for the ensuing year. Mr. Gorham's annual address was a very strong paper, the rural reader, yielding of grain and Dr. Francis, rector of the Texas A. & M. college who lectured daily on disease of farm animals.

Among the McLennan county citizens present were John Gorham, John Rogers, J. A. Pipkin, county dermatologist, Dr. L. C. Jones, Mr. Fred of Hewitt, who carried to the poultry show a very fine exhibit of white leghorns.

The attendance was unusually large, conspicuously so the ladies and girls who gave special attention to the exhibits and demonstrations continued the entire day on cooking, canning and preserving, housekeeping and house decoration, and poultry raising. There were a number of girls carrying churning rods and the like, and one duties calling at her hands, is in the treadmill. Men and women in all walks of life are in the treadmill, and many apparently make no effort to get out of the mill. Contented self-enslavement is without excuse and deserves no pity.

This work of conserving foods for future use has been largely neglected and allowed to waste, is taking rapid hold on our rural communities and, it is a great pity that something is not done to bring the matter before our town and city leaders.

In a very short time save millions of dollars annually to the state and it would be well for school teachers of Texas could have been present so that they could go back to their homes and demonstrate the work to their respective communities.

The principal lecturers in other fields this year, were Dr. Webber of the United States Bureau of Soils, section in agriculture, who talked on seed selection of new types of cotton and seed improvement; Dr. Jardine, dean of Kansas A. and M. college, who discussed improvements in the yields of grain and Dr. Francis, rector of the Texas A. & M. college who lectured daily on disease of farm animals.

Dr. Bissell, president of the college, was unfortunately absent on important business, Mr. Key, director of forestry, and his able corps of assistants gave everybody a glad hand and warm welcome, so that the utmost good fellowship and democracy prevailed. Clarence Ousley, director of the extension bureau, and Tom Watson, editor of the Waco News, was for some time editor of the News, materially assisted in the work of making the occasion pleasant.

Much improvement was noted in the new buildings recently completed and in process of construction, not to mention other planned and the money therefor now available. Many citizens do not realize that this institution is no longer a prep school but is a great university.

The little cannery plant of the State Orphans home has been busy this summer, and Wednesday it made its record run. At 6 o'clock, the count showed that the boys and girls had put up 492 half-gallon jars of Elbertas.

The cannery plant has been operated on shares and also on strictly home work this summer, and the boys and girls have become experts in this work. Superintendent Barnett and Miss Bess Whitaker have charge of the cannery work and they have trained quite a number of the children. During the big run yesterday six boys and thirty girls were at work on the job.

Corn and tomatoes have been brought to the home from twenty different points in the county this summer to be canned on the shares, which means that the farmer furnished the fruit or vegetables and gets half after paying for his part of the time. Corn and tomatoes have been canned on the shares. In addition to the tomatoes canned on shares, the little folks have put up 2,500 cans of their own.

Superintendent Barnett found some Elbertas in town, which were offered at a good price, so he purchased eight-and-a-half bushels. Fifty bushels disappeared before the cannery yesterday and the remaining thirty-four were placed in the home cold storage vault for future use. Before the season closes, 2,000 cans of peaches will have been put up by the children.—Corsicana Morning News.

John Gorham Thinks Farmers' Congress Accomplishes Much

President John Gorham of the Texas Farmers' congress, asked what he thought of the recent meeting in College Station of that body and allied gatherings of farmers, said that in his judgment great good had been accomplished at the meetings, and that farming in Texas is getting on a more practical and result-getting basis constantly. The discussions, relations and personal experiences, demonstrations and lectures, said President Gorham, are calculated to benefit all who hear them, regardless of their business or profession.

This car shipped Wednesday may be the last car for the season on account of the crop being cut short by the dry weather. However, if sufficient quantities of melons can be found the association will continue shipping until the supply is exhausted.—De Leon Free Press.

Horse Sense for Horsemen. Don't overload your horses.

Don't feed too much corn in hot weather.

Don't make sudden changes in the feed.

Don't keep your horses in poorly ventilated stables.

Don't feed grain to warm horses. Give them hay first.

Don't allow the harness, especially the collar, to chafe, nor neglect to clean the harness once in a while.

Don't expect your horses to relish their feed unless they are in good condition.

Don't let your horses drink a large amount of water on coming into the stable very warm. Allow them to cool off a bit first.

Don't allow young horses to wear a set of shoes more than a week.

Have Birthday Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Berlowitz of North Ninth street entertained in honor of their son Harry's birthday yesterday.

Besides the family those present for the happy affair were Miss Florence Cohen of this city and Phillip M. Cohen of Temple.

President John Gorham of the Texas Farmers' congress, asked what he thought of the recent meeting in College Station of that body and allied gatherings of farmers, said that in his judgment great good had been accomplished at the meetings, and that farming in Texas is getting on a more practical and result-getting basis constantly. The discussions, relations and personal experiences, demonstrations and lectures, said President Gorham, are calculated to benefit all who hear them, regardless of their business or profession.

This is the second term of Mr. Gorham as president, and he has made a most acceptable head for the Texas Farmers' congress. He lives at Bosqueville, on a few miles out from Waco, and this city really claims him as a resident.

Improvement Notes

The roof is being put on the handsome new brick building erected by the American Express company at the Katy depot, just west of the passenger depot of the railroad. The structure is a very pretty one, and will place the American Express company in possession of one of the nicest and best equipped express buildings in the state.

Rufus F. Bassett, a well known trapping man, is having a beautiful cottage erected at Twenty-sixth and Sanger avenue, the foundations having been put in already. Several other nice residences have been erected in that part of Waco recently as well as in other parts of the city.

National Guardsmen Movie Actors.

In these days of pinched financial circumstances among guardsmen in the Mexican border, employees of the Vitagraph-Labin-Selig-Essanay, Inc., who answered the president's call, have been the envy of their fellow troopers, for not only have they been receiving their regular pay envelope from the government and their weekly salary from the company employing them, but the month they received substantial checks from the Big Four company, as a result of the distribution of the V-L-S-E profit sharing fund.

WOULD GIVE NAMELESS BABIES A FAIR CHANCE

SUPERINTENDENT J. L. RUSSELL
TELLS OF WORKING RES-CUE HOME.

Thinks That Foster Parents for Child
Will Help Mother Redeem Herself.

The quarterly meeting of the board of physicians was held in the Home of the Good Shepherd Friday evening, August 3, and the work of the home for the past three months was reviewed and approved. Its methods of work along financial lines and also with reference to the adoption of infants were thoroughly discussed.

The question of support, daily bread, food and raiment, is one of the first questions to be settled with every home or institution with hungry mouths to feed.

We cannot deal with this subject in haphazard sort or way; we must have a sound business method on which to operate, if we succeed. Three men may wish to provide; the rent must be paid, the telephone bills and gas men want their pay and must have it; (we have just had experience on that line), and dozens of other things constantly call for money. Now, one can play along and do nothing and it doesn't cost much. But we are here with the Home of the Good Shepherd to work for God by helping unfortunate humanity, and by the help of the Lord we are doing it—and it costs.

Times have changed in the past few years. Charity institutions have multiplied and avenues are leading out in every direction through which the people are directing their benefactions. The result is that more and greater charity is divided up into hundreds of little bits "to help all a little," and many suffer for want of support.

The people of Texas are a big-hearted people and their ears are ever open to the real cry of distress and suffering; but sometimes this cry does not arise for want of money, but may be wrung from the broken heart of a poor ruined girl who in a moment of weakness has listened to the voice of temptation yielded to her betrayer and been robbed of her virtue, and must seek a place of reclusion—a home for unfortunate girls. She has saved up enough money to pay her expenses or perhaps her family or friends have money and do not want charity, but the girl needs the moral and religious help and training given in the home—to prepare her to take up the broken threads of life and bathe with the world again. Do we reject her because she has money? No; it is a part of our common sense and business management to encourage passage from pay cases, just like a business man in his office, to give good cash customers and the minister likes a good man in his church who can go down deep in their pockets for money to support the church, still not ignoring the poorer members.

I cannot turn the girl away because she needs us and we need her; and I cannot reject her money and ask the public to support her as a charity case.

The question of adopting infants into homes and "separating mothers and their offspring" is purely a personal matter with these young girls and we leave it to them to decide. We have not space to discuss fully the merits of this subject. Do we accept money for adopting babies in homes?

If infants are born in this home no charges are made for adopting the child. But we have cases like this: A young mother brought us a babe a few days ago, wishing us to take it and adopt it. I said "I may have to keep the baby a month or two, and our nurse has several babies on hand, and mothers also, to nurse, and I have no money to hire extra help." "Oh, I have the money to pay all expenses," she said. "Of placing my child in a good home?" We have taken many such cases as it is purely a matter of reasonable compensation for services rendered.

We believe scarcely any fallen girl is competent to care for, educate and train up a child. Not one in five has the means to do it; not one in five has a permanent home to keep the child in, and it becomes a little tramp from place to place, and if she works out it just stays anywhere during the day. Besides, the mother is obliged to tell the people daily she is a fallen girl which increases her temptations and no one wants her with her child in their homes; or she has to resort to lying by saying she has a husband somewhere. She soon becomes disengaged and goes down to the red-light district and the child grows up to fill the ranks of criminals.

We recommend: Give the child a good home and the name of the foster parents. Give it a chance—which it has a right to—and this gives the mother a chance to redeem herself. J. L. RUSSELL, Supt.

HIPPODROME.

"Honor Thy Name," shown as a whole, "Honor Thy Name," showing at the Hippodrome today and Tuesday, will stand as one of the very best of all the Triangle releases. It is artistic, human, tensely dramatic and exceptionally played by every character in the cast, strong and support alike. Frank Keen an has the lead role and holds it merely by the strength of his eye, and by quiet, forceful playing and his exceptional personality stands out in this production, which boasts of three stars of established following. Young Charles Ray again demonstrates his right to be called the "Inex Wonder-boy," and gives another great portrayal of a well intentioned but weak young man. Louise Glauum has played the vampire parts notably in the Hart, "Hell's Hinges" but in "Honor Thy Name" she is more effective than ever before. Gertrude Claire, Blanche White and others in the supporting cast fit into their roles naturally and beautifully.

The production has a fine air of the old days of Virginia, yet it is not a period or costume play. Old Colonel Castleton sets his son to the North to be educated, commanding that the Castletons always take their pleasure like gentlemen and honor their name above all things. The son meets a girl of the cafes, and without learning her character determines to marry her. The Colonel goes to see about the affair, and learning the true state, allows his son to find him in the girl's apartment in order to prove he should marry her. When the son leaves the girl's mother reveals herself to the Colonel as the prime donna who was once his mistress. Later the girl and her mother succeed in getting the boy drunk and they are married. The wife forces him to take her to his home in Virginia, and here after repeated efforts on the part of the Colonel to persuade the girl to leave the son, comes the big climax and end which startles and impresses.

Railroad Building in Plains Country Is Encouraging

A cheering and encouraging note has been sounded in the past few weeks in the matter of improvement of the chances for railroad building in Texas, in that several charters have been filed for proposed new lines, chiefly in the plains section of the state.

It is predicted that with the return of normal conditions there will be a distinct revival of railroad building, with the consequent development, and when this time comes, Waco has two of the fine projects which ought to materialize, these being the Katy line to Trinity.

It is probable, however, that nothing further will be done on any of these projects until the great strike which is now impending shall have been settled one way or the other.
